For each specification, all contents of the process of the same parties, releasing him from all piedges to vote for Judge Ring, and organish man to assist in putting this item of extra expense calculated in the beds, is the fact that there is plenty of "phat" for the printers in bills and other measures introduced, because, very frequently, a house bill is infreduced, because, very frequently, a house bill is infreduced as a senate measure simulaneously in the senate and vice versa. This duplication, while it may be of advantage in the process of lawmaking, is expensive in the extreme to the state and a source of large profit at high prices to the printing contractor. for the United States senatorship, in case it proved impossible to elect any one of the men now in the field, a close friend of Mr. Richards spoke very freely on he matter yesterday. "Mr. Richards has no desire to go into politics." he said. "He has never had political amhitions, and i know he has no thought of taking any part in the present contest. The use of his name in that connection in a morning paper today was, I am sure, without his knowledge or consent, for he has never for a moment had any idea of going into the race. Indeed, I very much doubt whether he would accept the nomination if it were tendered him by a majority of the legislature."

CALLED HIS FRIEND A FOOL.

Remark That Caused the Death of San Franciscan San Francisco, Peb. L-W. S. Pardy,

San Franciscal.

San Francisco, Feb. L.-W. S. Pardy, assistant secretary of the Pacific State Building & Loan association, was shot and fatally wounded in the company's office by Christian Relss, jr., son of the extreasurer of this city and consty, today. The shooting was the result of a trivial quarrel, Reiss having taken mallicious offense at a remark passed by Pardy. According to the dying statement of the wounded man, Reiss visited his office to condemn Pardy for talking of him in a slurring manner. Pardy denied that he had said anything beyond the fact that Heiss was a — fool, and offered to chastise any person who had stated that his (Pardy's) remarks were of a more serious nature. Reiss replied that he had come to settle with Pardy, and called him a vile name. Pardy resented the opithet and struck Reiss on the month. The latter pulled his pisted and shot Pardy, the ball entering the heart. Pardy will die.

Reiss made practically the same statement as Pardy but added that he had not intended to murder his former friend, saying he had purchased the pistel today to kill squirrels with Both men are of good family. Reiss friends say that the shooting was the result of an accident.
